"This course has overlap with our course 399 Introduction to Behavioral Neuroscience, but we would have to see more details to be sure. It would help to have a more in-depth, lecture-by-lecture list of topics (for example, I don't know if they cover the various types of receptors, or other protein machines, where neurotransmitters, and drugs, will act.) WOU: Elective in minor; Elective in major. "We allow up to 16 credits of lower division credits in our 56 credits of psychology major. We also allow up to 12 credits of lower division credits for psychology minor. This course would count toward the above lower division, but we also require PSY201 and PSY202 for both the Psych major and minor, so there are a limited number of elective courses that will count. OSU: Elective only. "OSU would articulate this as PSY LDT."
